

Spread Oaks Ranch Continental Pheasant Tower Shoot

Thirty feet in the air, the new skyscraper on the prairie is “home base” for the Spread Oaks continental pheasant tower shoot. Here, birds raised in flight pens are released for your party of shooters in a manner reminiscent of the classic European driven hunts. It’s a challenging test for novice and experienced wing shooters alike.

“Social season” – anytime waterfowl or deer season is closed – is an ideal time to plan a continental shoot. Some guests combine the tower shoot with a second day of traditional upland hunting. You can also add this as an activity during your hunting season visit by replacing a waterfowl or deer/hog hunt, and we’ll adjust the pricing on your invoice. We can accommodate anywhere from 8 to 20 shooters. Please note that the ranch runs tower hunts only from October 1 to April 15.

What’s Included and Pricing:

- In addition to providing your 12- and/or 20-gauge ammunition, we clean (skin) and package your birds.
- Need to rent a shotgun? We have an inventory of 8 over and under 12-gauge shotguns.
- While we have the flexibility to shape the shoot to your needs, our “core” package is priced at $4,500 for a 10-gun 100-bird shoot during “social season” and $3750 for a 10-gun 100-bird shoot during hunting season.

How to Book: Spread Oaks Ranch needs 30 days advance notification before your visit to schedule any pheasant tower shoot. Contact Ged Durham at 210-863-1857 or email
